up to Maplewood. I carried up the flag pole that John's father gave me, and put it beside his porch. I cut and trimmed for two hours and got the Cemetery in order in the area where the Ceremony on the 4th would be held: near the Alexander Bryden stone. And was walking down Church Street, I saw the Shiflers on their porch and went over for a chat. They explained that they would not be able to attend the Ceremony in Maplewood on the Fourth because they had had "a call" - meaning a body to embalm and bury. As we chatted, a motorcycle pulled up across the street. It was J.V.B. What a pleasant surprise. He asked if I felt like going for a motorcycle ride and I said yes. The Shiflers, he and I chatted for about 10 minutes and then JVB and I drove down here. I asked JVB if he would mind if I took a 5-minute bath before we set out - an absolute necessity given the fact that I was soaking wet from having worked for two hours in the 90 degree weather. Just as I was about to step into the tub, Jean Colville called and said: "I've never been so depressed in my life and I don't know what to do." I told her that I was on my way out the door but then added: "Jean, let me make a phone call. I'll change my plans and come up." She was very pleased. John and I went up -- on the motorcycle. She never inquired how it was that John was with me, but she was very pleased that he was there. She is very attracted to him and loves having him around. Andrew Colville ("Drew") is being sought by the Waymart police, the Carbondale police, and the state police for forgery and other crimes and misdemeanors. It's nothing new: he has been at odds with the law for most of his 24 years. Jean and Ken are hoping that
